2005 NEC Seminar
features national electrical trainer and code expert
Mike Holt

The instructor makes all the difference.

When you choose to attend one of these NEC Seminars from Rexel you're getting information from one of the best in the industry. Rexel believes people are the most important resource in the industry today. That is why it is so important to have the best instructor for these NEC Seminars possible. When you depend on the information gained in this seminar everyday to make important electrical decisions, you want to be sure your source is a nationally recognized educator. Here are a few of the reasons why Mike Holt is Rexel's choice to lead these one day seminars.

About the instructor

Mike Holt worked his way up through the electrical trade from an apprentice electrician to a master electrician and electrical inspector. Mike did not complete high school due to circumstances. Realizing that success depends on one's education, he immediately attained his GED, and ten years later he attended the University of Miami's Graduate School for a Masters in Business Administration (MBA). Today Mike continues to stay current in all aspects of his education. Because of his educational experiences, he understands the needs of his students, and strongly encourages and motivates them to continue their own education.

As an educator

Mike is nationally recognized as one of America's most knowledgeable electrical trainers. He has touched the lives of many thousands of electricians, inspectors, contractors and engineers. His dynamic and animated teaching style is relaxed, direct and fun. Perhaps Mike's best quality is his ability to motivate his students to become more successful.

A code expert

Mike has devoted his career to studying and understanding the National Electrical Code, (the foundation of the electrical industry). Researching the NEC all these years and understanding its background has not only made Mike an expert, but it has earned him the respect of his peers.

A recognized author

Mike is a well-respected author and developer of software, books and video training programs. He has mastered the art of explaining the complicated in a simple but direct style. His ability to simplify technical concepts makes him one of America's most sought after speakers in the electrical trade. His extensive use of illustration in all of his training programs makes learning fun. His articles have been seen in numerous magazines, such as Electrical Construction & Maintenance (EC&M), CEE News, Electrical Design and Installation (EDI), Electrical Contractor (EC), International Association of Electrical Inspectors (IAEI News), The Electrical Distributor (TED) and Power Quality (PQ) Magazine.

Get the information you need in a one day National Electrical Code Seminar.

Rexel and Mike Holt join forces to present one of the most informative Seminars in the industry today!

Nearly 4,000 changes in the Code were proposed for the NEC and many of them are critical for your success. This is your chance for an in-depth examination of the most important changes. You can't afford to be "in the dark" because many of these changes will significantly alter the cost of business! Join Mike and explore the 2005 NEC Code and its effect on you and the electrical industry.

This exciting seminar with Mike will translate the very technical language of the NEC into everyday electrician's language that you will understand.

After the NEC Seminar don't miss the Rexel Trade Show.

Immediately following the NEC Seminar be sure and visit the Rexel Trade Show. There will be many quality manufacturers on hand for you to talk with while looking over some of the industry's finest electrical and datacom equipment. There will also be lots of great contests and prizes - you won't want to miss this one. You do not need to attend the NEC Seminar to visit the Rexel Trade Show. The show runs from 3:30pm-8:00pm and admission is FREE.
